

Multimedia

Institut Coppet also uses various multimedia supports to spread the message of liberty:

- Podcasts:
- videos: events, eco-philo coffees, explanation interviews, subtitles of preexisting videos;
- audios:

Videos are available on our YouTube account, that anyone can access here: www.youtube.com/icoppet.

Institut Coppet Team

Institut Coppet is composed of many people, including a scientific comity, translators, members, but is conducted by a team of 5 administrators (from left to right on the picture): Marc Lassort, Research Director; Damien Theillier, President; Benoît Malbranque, Project Manager; Stéphane Geyres, Secretary General; Stéphane Couvreur, Treasurer.

Seminars

Devoted to the cause of spreading the free market tradition in a French and Austrian view, Institut Coppet regularly organizes conferences, seminars and events with great minds: Alain Laurent, Guido Hülsmann, Pascal Salin, Nigel Ashford, Frank Karsten, and others. These seminars are designed to the understanding of the different schools of thought, of the French liberal school, but also on specific subjects (left-wing and individualism, democracy, money, etc.). We plan to expand these seminars by creating a virtual university where everybody could learn at distance and at his rythm.

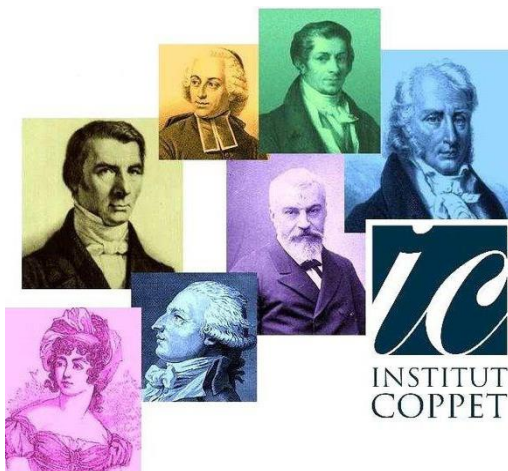

Spreading ideas

French classical liberal school

26, rue de la Bienfaisance – 75008 Paris

info@institutcoppet.org

www.institutcoppet.org

About us

Institut Coppet is an institute that promotes the ideas of a French classical liberal school and the intellectual heritage left by those great economists. Its main purpose is to fulfill the lack of knowledge about our own history in France, and to renew this great tradition.

The Group of Coppet, led by Madame de Staël and Benjamin Constant, was at the dawn of the nineteenth century the first European think tank dedicated to the study of liberty under all its forms. Its work focused on the problems of establishing a limited constitutional government, the issue of free trade, imperialism and French colonialism, the history of the French Revolution, and Napoleon, on free speech, education, culture, the rise of socialism and the Welfare State.

France has lost its tradition of liberty, free trade and pro-market, and preferred socialism, egalitarianism and the Welfare State to a free society. This cannot be a destiny.

Institut Coppet was founded in order to renew this promotion of pro-liberty and pro-market ideas in a French tradition, but also by bringing a knowledge about all other liberal and libertarian schools of thought.

To achieve its goal, Institut Coppet uses different means : a website by publishing different articles, texts, excerpts; seminars and lectures with great thinkers from different backgrounds and countries; videos, podcasts, radio shows; a participation in other projects, organizations, events, etc.

Dear friends,

The Institut Coppet needs your help to expand its publications. Support Institut Coppet in its mission to rehabilitate a forgotten heritage: the French classical liberal tradition. The institute is a non-political, non-profit, educational organization and accepts no taxpayer money. Institut Coppet is supported solely by contributions from private individual, foundations, and businesses. Please feel free to contact me at damien.theillier@institutcoppet.org or visit our website at www.institutcoppet.org

For Liberty,

Damien Theillier

President of the Institut Coppet

A review: Laissons faire

Every month on the 18th since June 2013, Institut Coppet publish a new issue of its review, Laissons faire. Inspired by great French reviews of political economy such as the Journal des économistes, Laissons faire is dedicated to the study of French economists, by showing what lessons we can derive from their analysis and theories. This review is directed by Benoît Malbranque, editor-in-chief of the review, and has already written about many main thinkers (Tocqueville, Turgot, Bastiat, Molinari, Passy, Say, Guyot, Nemours, Coquelin, Le Trosne, etc.).

Publications

One of the core activities of Institut Coppet is to translate articles, books and texts. For instance, we recently published the translation of Wenzel's reading list that helps readers to become well-informed libertarians. It included texts from Lew Rockwell, Murray N. Rothbard, Ludwig von Mises, Walter Block and so on.

We are also going to publish printed versions of several books we already published on our website:

- Murray Rothbard, Les dépressions économiques, État, qu'as-tu fait de notre monnaie ?
- Voltaire, Écrits économiques
- Frédéric Bastiat, La Loi
- Yves Guyot, L'impôt sur le revenu

Our website also contains tons of free ebooks, epub and PDF, from various authors, schools and periods, that our readers can download for free.